John Matthews selected as Huntsville Center's Deputy for Programs and Technical Management

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — John Matthews was selected as the Deputy for Programs and Technical Management for the U.S. Army Engineering and Support Center, Huntsville.

Matthews's career with the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers began in 1970 with the New Orleans District. In February 1977, he came to the Huntsville Center as a project manager. Matthews, a registered professional engineer, has worked on many programs and projects over the last 30 years at Huntsville Center. Prior to his new position, he was the director for Huntsville Center's Ballistic Missile Defense Directorate.
