U.S. Army Corps of Engineers seeks small businesses for projects supporting the Military Munitions Response and Hazardous, Toxic and Radioactive Waste Programs

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The U.S. Army Engineering and Support Center, Huntsville, is evaluating the ability of small businesses to perform future projects supporting the Military Munitions Response (MMRP) and Hazardous, Toxic and Radioactive Waste (HTRW) Programs.

Businesses must be able to perform all aspects of MMRP and HTRW. Projects may occur at sites located in the continental United States and outside the continental United States. Overseas operations also include logistical support and security operations for personnel, materials and equipment in dangerous areas or war zones.

The period of performance is expected to be five years with a total program value of approximately $2 billion. Preliminary analysis indicates that military munitions related work will be approximately 75 percent of the projected effort, and HTRW related work will be approximately 25 percent of the projected effort. The prime contractor of each team must perform 50 percent of the team's work.

Interested vendors should complete the capability statement found at this link <http://www.hnd.usace.army.mil/contract/RefInfo/OE%20Capability%20Statement.doc> and return it via e-mail to paul.c.daugherty@hnd01.usace.army.mil. Huntsville Center may plan to make multiple awards pending the outcome of this announcement.

Please send all responses no later than 4 p.m., Sept. 21. Information presented is for market research purposes only. Huntsville Center will hold an Industry Day conference in Huntsville, Ala., during the second week of September to provide additional information to interested firms. Huntsville Center will announce details for the conference via a modification to this synopsis at www.fedbizopps.gov.

This synopsis is for information and planning purposes only and is not a request for proposal. The government will not reimburse the contractor for any cost associated with preparing or submitting a response to this notice.
