Huntsville, Al.-- A U.S. Army Engineering and Support Center employee received the Outstanding Contracting Officer Specialized Services and Construction Contracting Award at the Secretary of the Army Awards for Excellence in Contracting.

Aaron Kelly received the award during the Department of Defense Procurement Conference and Training Symposium in Orlando, Fla.

Dr. Heidi Shyu, Principal Deputy of the Assistant Secretary of the Army for Acquisition, Logistics and Technology, offered the keynote address and announced the award winners.

"The United States Army is the worlds preimininant land combative force. There are many reasons for this , but the chief among them is the strength to resolve of our diversified contracting and acquisition workforce," Shyu said in her address..
